CATION POSITION OR POLICY

The body of information about issues in the education of the poor and minorities is rapidly increasing. Although any bibliography on the topic will be soon outdated, requests to the American Council on Education for sources of information seem to warrant publication of this listing. The bibliographical sections include only such references as are fairly readily available. Omitted from the listings are references to work still in progress and organizations which, although concerned with aspects of the subject, do not appear to be in a position to respond usefully to requests for printed information or direct assistance.

Members of the Council will receive two copies of this Special Report so that presidents may, if they wish, pass one or both along to others who may now be working on the issues covered. The Special Report may be quoted and reproduced without restriction.
